CELEBRATION IN THIS CITY A BIG SUCCESS

Attended by Hundreds of Visitors From San Francisco and All Sections of San Mateo County.

San Mateo county's big 1912 event has come and gone.

The four-days' carnival and Independence Day celebration held in this city last Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday was a success in every particular.

The crowning of the queen ceremony Monday evening was viewed by many hundred people.

F. A. Cunningham, president of the board of city trustees and chairman of the Fourth of July committee, presented Queen Leonora Parr with the crown and scepter of her office and then gave her the golden key of this city with the following very fitting words:

"Friends and neighbors and strangers within our gates, I welcome you. On behalf of the various committees I wish to thank you all for your liberal support in this our initial carnival undertaking. But in order to have a successful carnival we must have a queen to grace the throne. The contest just passed was a spirited one, but I am pleased to say a friendly one, and during the whole proceeding there has not been one harsh or disparaging word.

"In this great country of ours with its wonderful men and its wonderful resources and in the rush of business activities we too often forget the most important part of our national life. I refer to the greatest institution in the world today—to the American home; to the thousands of uncrowned queens all over our land.

"From the landing of the Pilgrims down to the present time, both in the victories of war and in the triumphs of peace American womanhood has stood forth as a beacon light to civilization.

"To-night we are going to crown one of those queens who has grown to young womanhood in our midst and by her gentle and womanly ways has won all our hearts.

"It is therefore with pleasure that I have the great honor, Leonora, of crowning thee queen of our city. May this royal crown rest lightly on your queenly head.

"In your hand I place this scepter. It is an emblem of power and authority. May you ever wield it with kindness and with love.

"As you are now the ruler of our city, I will present to you the golden key to its portal. Open wide the door of hospitality, bid a hearty welcome to the stranger seeking admission and thus retain the love of your loyal subjects. Let all the people rejoice. I present you our Queen, Leonora."

Queen Leonora responded by addressing the following proclamation to the people of this city:

"To my loyal and loving subjects of the city of South San Francisco, I greet thee:

"I have been raised to the royal state by your good will and favor, I prize your love above earthly powers; above the mere crown and robes of royal office. My reign will be brief, but with your aid, I hope to make it glorious. Three days shall you dispense with dull care and give yourselves over entirely to gladness and pleasure and let joy reign supreme.

"On the Fourth, you salute 'Old Glory.' Kindle anew the fires of patriotism in every heart and so celebrate the greatest day in the annals of our history.

"I hereby decree that each and everyone abandon all care and be glad and merry.

"Your sovereign. LEONORA."

Both Mr. Cunningham and Miss Parr did their parts in splendid manner and received many plaudits and congratulations.

The evening's entertainment closed with a grand ball in Metropolitan Hall in honor of the Queen.

Tuesday evening, Queen Leonora was again escorted to her throne and held sway a short time.

Wednesday evening a reception was tendered to Queen Leonora at the home of her parents.

Thursday, the day's festivities began with an elaborate parade, which started about 11 o'clock. In the procession, under command of Grand Marshal E. W. Langenbach, were the Eleventh Company, Coast Artillery, of San Mateo, the Goddess of Liberty, Miss Fern Mahoney with several little girls representing the thirteen original states in a beautiful float, the local school children, the Carnival Queen, Miss Leonora Parr, with her attendants, in a nicely decorated automobile, various fraternal orders with floats, and decorated business vehicles. The South City Rough Riders, under command of Col. Peter Lind, with a float representing a large steer, followed by a cannon belching forth loud salutes occasionally, made up the last division of the procession.

At the close of the parade literary exercises were held at the Queen's throne.

The large assemblage was called to order by Judge E. E. Cunningham. After delivering a short address in well chosen words he introduced City Attorney J. W. Coleberd who read the Declaration of Independence.

This was followed by a strong and patriotic oration by Hon. Samuel Shortridge of Menlo Park.

The balance of the day's festivities was taken up by a free barbecue, fire hose company, races, baseball, fireworks display in the evening at the baseball grounds and a grand all-night ball in Metropolitan Hall in honor of the Goddess of Liberty, Miss Fern Mahoney.

The fire hose cart race was won by the local company in 35 seconds. Their opponents from San Mateo ran over the course in 75 seconds.

Several hundred visitors from San Francisco and San Mateo county were here on Thursday.

Prizes were given to the best decorated floats in the Fourth of July parade: Best, Native Daughters of the Golden West Parlor of Colma, $40; second best, local lodge of United Ancient Order

LOCAL GRADUATES RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

As usual, the graduates of the local grammar school have maintained the high standard of averages in their examinations this year that has prevailed in previous years under the excellent system established and carried out by Principal Geo. E. Britton and the competent corps of teachers under him.

Fourteen pupils, the entire number of the eighth grade class, have won their diplomas entitling them to enter high school.

The average percentage received by the class is the highest in the county. Mary Carmody received 95 per cent in the examination, the second highest individual average in the county.

Principal McCrea of the Redwood City high school while complimenting their good work, expressed the wish that some of the local graduates would attend his school.

The names of the successful scholars are: Mary Carmody, Arthur Spring, Juanita Dean, Gretchen Cushing, Reuben Smith, John Dancak, Alice McGrath, Minnie Foley, Wm. Castro, Amelie Fourcans, Mimi Cushing, Arthur Woodman, Emily Bartoli, Dora Schmidt.

It is now the proper time to establish a high school in this city. There is an absolute demand for it. Petitions have been prepared by the local board of school trustees which should be signed by every citizen and parent. The petitions will be presented to the county board of supervisors in order to have a high school district established here.

The board has had the grammar school building improved in first class shape and on the upper floor there is sufficient room for a high school, which can be conducted at very little additional expense.

Principal Britton is a thoroughly educated university man, has the confidence of the parents and children of this city and will maintain the same high standard in high school work that has prevailed in the grammar grades since he has been in this city.

A high school in a city is a splendid asset, and the progressive people of this growing city want one established here.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY TRUSTEES

Last Monday night the board of city trustees met and immediately adjourned to Tuesday evening.

When the meeting of Tuesday evening was called to order, Trustee Kelley introduced an amendment to liquor ordinance, which will come up for adoption at the next meeting.

Several claims against the city were allowed and adjournment was taken until next Monday night.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS TOLD IN BRIEF

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Kneese have rented the John Neuman home.

Daniel Hyland left last Saturday for a two-weeks' vacation in Guerneville.

New window shades have been put up in the rooms of grammar school building.

Louis Wagenicht was in town last week greeting old friends. "Dutch" says business is fine with him.

Mrs. A. D. Flagler and son William of Los Angeles are visiting this city, the guests of her sister, Mrs. A. P. Scott.

Mrs. H. A. Cavassa and little daughters have returned home from a visit with Mrs. Cavassa's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hofers of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ferguson and their daughter left last week for Farrallone City on the coast side where they expect to take up their residence.

Mrs. John P. Neuman of San Francisco spent several days of last week in town looking after her property and greeting friends.

Wm. Wallace, of Kansas, with his wife and two children, are visiting this city, the guests of George and James Wallace, his brothers.

The party is known who stole the garden hose from the residence of Chas. H. Woodman on Grand avenue. If it is not returned immediately the party will be prosecuted.

Some miscreant broke off the top of a fire hydrant at the school house last Tuesday night. If it can be found out who did it prosecution to the full extent of the law will be enforced.

Mr. and Mrs. John Woodard who formerly resided here were visitors last week from Oakland where Mr. Woodard is employed in an abstract office and reports business flourishing.

To the citizens' committee and my many true and loyal friends I wish to extend my heartfelt thanks for their help and many courtesies before and during my royal reign. Leonora Parr.

Yesterday morning Engineer Lawrence of the Spring Valley Water Co. with a gang of men started the work of lowering the company's big main in San Bruno road north of Grand avenue.

Miss Emma Fikerkotter left on Friday of last week to join friends in San Francisco whose guest she will be on an automobile trip through the northern part of the state. The party expects to be gone until July 12th.

Misses Marguerite Kauffmann, Josie Kreiss, G. M. Golding and M. J. Williams attended the Epworth League Institute held at Mount Hermon in the Santa Cruz mountains last week and report that they had a delightful time.

City Attorney J. W. Coleberd has returned from his trip to the eastern states. He brought back with him a wife to whom he was married in Garrett, Indiana, his former home. Before her marriage her name was Miss Ada Mountz. Many congratulations to yourself and wife, J. W., and The Enterprise wishes you both a long, happy and prosperous life.

BASEBALL NEWS

Last Sunday afternoon a snappy game of baseball was played by the I. X. L. Tamales of San Francisco and the South San Franciscos of this city on the local diamond opposite the Southern Pacific depot.

There was a good attendance, and the game was thoroughly enjoyed.

The local team won by a score of 8 to 7.

Thursday afternoon the San Mateos and South San Franciscos played a lively game.

There were about 500 or 600 people in attendance, and considerable noisy rooting was given to both teams.

The honors were evenly divided during the first half of the game when the score stood 7 to 6 in favor of the San Mateos.

From the seventh inning on, the San Mateos kept in the lead and the score at the finish was 16 to 8 in favor of the San Mateos.

Wiggs, imported pitcher for the local team, did some poor work, and acted in a manner as if he did not care whether the club who paid him won or not. He did a lot of wild pitching, and many balls that were batted into the infield by the San Mateos that he could have caught were fumbled by him.

To-morrow afternoon the local team will cross bats with the Daly Citys on the local diamond at 2:30.

Captain Jehl of the local team who has had considerable experience says that Tom Hickey has it in him with a little coaching to develop into a first class pitcher. Hickey will pitch to-morrow, but Tom Garrity will be present to help if Hickey weakens.

The practice the boys have had in the last two games should put them on their mettle for a fast, snappy game to-morrow afternoon. McArthur will be official umpire.

REDUCED RATES FOR ELECTRICITY

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company has issued a reduced rate of charges to consumers of electricity in the South San Francisco district, as follows:

Commercial—Six cents for the first 150 kilowatt hours in any one month, 5 cents for the next 300, 4 cents for the next 600, and 3 cents for all over 1050.

Residence—Eight cents for the first 30 kilowatt hours consumed in any month, 7 cents for the next 70, 6 cents for the next 100, and 5 cents for all over.

Each rate carries a minimum of $1 per month per meter installed.

METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday July 7th. 10:30 a. m. Sunday school. Mrs. E. G. Evens, superintendent. Parents are urged to send their children. 7:30 p. m. Preaching by Pastor M. J. Williams. The theme will be, "Christian Patriotism." Every one will find a cordial welcome.

Having some leisure time, I can take a few more music scholars in this city. Mrs. J. F. Cullar, San Bruno, or this office. *

s. Davis, Who Caused
Roosevelt Outburst at Chicago.

© by American Press Association.

MRS. W. A. DAVIS.

Mrs. W. A. Davis is enjoying the popularity attending her recent excited rush for fame on the floor of the Chicago national convention.

This impulsive lady caused the delegates to cheer for twenty minutes by waving a large banner bearing Colonel Roosevelt's portrait. Mrs. Davis explains the happening in the following way:

"While I was sitting there I saw a handsome large picture of Roosevelt lying on a man's lap. I said, 'Oh, give me that, won't you?' I did not wait for him to answer, but snatched it away from him. I was so excited. They were cheering wildly, you know, for some one else, and I've always been a strong admirer of Roosevelt. I grabbed the picture and waved it wildly. I hardly knew what I was doing. I guess I'm rather excitable by nature.

"I hardly realized what they were doing when they took me down. I was too excited to be afraid. I felt perfectly at home, for some reason, although I never have appeared in public before."

The Useful Rose.

More in number than the count of its petals are the present day uses for the silky rose crocheted in baby Irish style out of the heavy mercerized cotton or twisted silk of white or cream color. The bags on which it is the chosen trimming are the very newest design to be seen in the shops that make a specialty of "the latest thing," but a use still more novel is as the trimming for one's new girdle.

As has been often said, the knack of crocheting them once learned is invaluable. And in this heavy thread there is not the eye strain to be guarded against which makes the finer work rather trying to those with sensitive vision. Once started, the little box or bag of single roses soon begins to fill up.

Dented Furniture.

When furniture becomes dented and not broken the marks may easily be made to disappear. Treat it in this manner:

Wet the bruised spot with water. Double a piece of brown paper five or six times and soak it in warm water. Place it upon the bruise and apply a warm (not hot) flatiron till the moisture has evaporated.

If the dent has not disappeared repeat the treatment.

To Remove Ink Spots.

If an ink spot gets on the carpet slip a pan under it immediately, pour cold water through it and then cover it with a little heap of salt. When the salt has become dark with ink remove it and put a fresh layer in its place. An ink stain is less likely to be spread by pouring water through it than by dipping it into hot water.

Give Her the Right Tool.

A woman can't drive a nail. There has been too much slandering of women. A woman may not be able to drive a nail with a hammer, but you give her a hairbrush and she can drive a nail as well as anybody.

The Latest Development.

Kansas City is to have band concerts with speeches on suffrage in the intermissions on the programme.

Cookery Points

Combination Marmalade.

Wash the rhubarb without peeling it, cut it into inch lengths and weigh it. Then to every pound of rhubarb add the pulp and juice of one orange and for every three pounds add the thin yellow peel of one orange. Put the rhubarb and oranges into a stone jar or an agate kettle, add a tablespoonful of water for every pound of rhubarb, set it in the oven and cover tightly. Bake until very tender, then rub through a sieve and put the pulp into a preserving kettle with a pound of sugar for every pound of rhubarb before it was cooked. Let boil twenty minutes, stirring it all the time with a silver or wooden spoon. Put it into small pots or glasses and cover as you do jelly.

Rolled Sandwiches.

For refreshments there are no daintier, prettier sandwiches than these, the making of which is very easy. Take a rather large loaf of bread, trim off the crusts and cut lengthwise into thin slices. Dip the slices in water, lay them in a pan, cover very closely and leave in a hot oven fifteen or twenty minutes. Remove from the oven and when partly cool spread with fresh sweet butter and very thin slices of cold boiled ham. Then roll up like jelly cake and place each sandwich so it will not come unrolled. The steaming gives them a fresh, sweet taste and makes them pliant, so they may be easily rolled.

Frozen Orange Cream.

This is a delicious dessert. Take the juice of six large oranges and two lemons, beat the yolks of six eggs thick, add two cupfuls of sugar, soak one-half package of gelatin in a little cold water to cover it, add a little boiling water to dissolve it. Mix all together and strain. Turn into the ice cream freezer and turn crank until it begins to set. Have a pint of cream whipped thick; take out dasher and beat in cream with spoon until the mixture is smooth. Pack in ice and salt the same as for ice cream. Let stand three hours to ripen, turn out on platter and serve with sponge cake.

Chocolate Loaf Cake.

Chocolate loaf cake with walnuts sprinkled through the dough is often served under the name of "fudge cake." This name, however, is more appropriately given to a layer cake spread with a thin layer of chocolate fudge. Pecans or hickory nuts may take the place of the walnuts, and they may be sprinkled through either the dough or the filling or through both. Two layers of white or yellow cake may be spread between and over the top with chocolate fudge containing nut meats.

Trick of the Oven.

If you wish to bake something quickly in the range with no fire started get together a collection of fine wood or chips, start your fire and let the top lids of the stove get very hot. Put these in the oven on top of the grate, put the article to be baked on these hot lids, and these will furnish bottom heat, while the quick fire will almost at once furnish top heat. The baking is very rapidly done with little heat in the house.

Frozen Custard.

Make a boiled custard with a quart of rich milk, the beaten yolks of three eggs and three-fourths of a cupful of sugar. Cook and stir until it begins to thicken. Remove at once from the fire, cool and flavor with a tablespoonful of vanilla. Add a cupful of cream and the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Mix and freeze.

Green Pea Cakes.

Heat and mash two cupfuls of peas that have been cooked tender. Season with butter, salt and pepper. Let the peas cool, then add two eggs well beaten, a small cupful of sweet milk and half a cupful of sifted flour well mixed with one teaspoonful of baking powder. Fry on a hot griddle well greased.

Cocoanut and Raisin Filling.

Take one cupful of stoned raisins chopped fine, half a cupful of chopped almonds, half a cupful of freshly grated cocoanut and the white of an egg beaten stiff. Beat all together thoroughly.

Sour Cream Cakes.

Take one and two-thirds cupfuls of sugar, half a cupful of butter, one cupful of cream, three eggs, half a teaspoonful of soda and three cupfuls of flour. Do not roll too thin.

ADVANCE STYLE.

Fall Model Designed For September Bride.

SUIT OF BLUE SATIN.

This French costume—an early fall model designed for a September trousseau—is of navy blue satin draped most gracefully in modified pannier style. The little yoke of hand hemmed batiste is modish.

About Women.

Women, says de Maule la Claviere, are not so frail as people are pleased to say. They are frail only when they wish to be.

It was in the manufacture of textiles that woman first appeared in industry outside of the home.

In China women carry their children from baskets that hang from a bar that crosses the mother's shoulders. Twins are desirable as preserving the balance of weight, if not for other reasons.

FOUNDERS OF THE CITY OF SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO

THE SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO LAND AND IMPROVEMENT COMPANY designed in its original plan to make of South San Francisco a great manufacturing center. With that object in view, it originally purchased 3500 acres of land in San Mateo County, on the bay front, five miles south of the City of San Francisco. Since the original purchase, the company has added greatly to its holdings by the purchase of large tracts of adjoining lands, giving to it a perfect environment for the complete development of a great manufacturing city.

The faith which this Company had in its enterprise has been manifest to everyone by the large expenditure it has made in the development of this property. Every foundation which goes to make a perfect condition for manufacture has been already solidly installed, and is a rapidly growing city; it is a railroad terminal; it is on the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and accessible to all railroads; has deep water communication; owns and operates for its industries a railroad connecting with the Southern Pacific and the water front; has electric street car service from factory to Town, and direct to San Francisco; has an Electric Light and Power Company; owns an independent Water Works, and has an abundance of fresh water for factory and house; has wharves and docks; a perfect sewerage system; a Bank and a Town Hall; and a population of over 3000 people an extensive and fine residence district, where everyone may secure lands at reasonable prices and on favorable terms, as homes for themselves and their families.

FACTORY SITES

can be obtained from the South San Francisco Land and Improvement Company on most reasonable terms.

The completion of the Bay Shore Tunnels has placed South San Francisco on the main lines of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and forty passenger trains per day connect it with the outside world.

Owing to the completion of the Dumbarton Bridge and Cutoff, South San Francisco will soon have all railroads which center in San Francisco passing through its midst.

Many industries are already established here, chief of which are the Western Meat Company, the Wool Pullery, the Soap Works, the Steiger Pottery Works, the W. P. Fuller White Lead Works, the South San Francisco Lumber and Supply Company, the Pacific Coast Steel Company, the Pacific Car and Equipment Company, the Standard Corrugated Pipe Works, and other enterprises, all of which are in operation to-day. The Meese Gottfried Machinery Company and the Enterprise Foundry of San Francisco have each recently made purchases of land, and South San Francisco is plainly destined to fulfill all that its promoters had hoped.

SATURDAY, JULY 6, 1912.

August 7th is the last day on which citizens who wish to vote for the next President of the United States may be naturalized. Registration for the general election November 5th closes on October 5th. County conventions for the fall political battles must be held by September 18th, and the state convention be held on September 24th. Independent nomination are to be filed with the secretary of state between September 16th to October 16th. The primary election will be on September 3d. July 29th is the last day for the filing of nomination papers for the primary.

COMMUNICATED.

Washington, D. C., July 2, 1912.
Mr. Editor: Permit me through the columns of your valuable paper to address a few words to my constituents in your locality. My friends in different parts of the eighth congressional district have sent me inquiries as to whether I would be a candidate for re-election to Congress for another term. Instead of writing to each one of these friends individually, I take this method of announcing, not only to them, but to the voters of the eighth district generally that I intend to be a candidate at the coming elections for renomination and, if nominated, for election as a representative in Congress from the eighth district. I have come to this decision, prompted not alone by my personal desire, but also because I believe that after my apprenticeship of eight years of active service here I can serve the people of the district and our state better than any man without congressional experience. In the next Congress there is sure to be a revision of a part if not all the schedules of the present tariff law, no matter what party is successful. This revision will profoundly affect the large business interests of our state, the very existence of some of them depending upon their receiving adequate protection and fair treatment in the new tariff law. A new man can do little or nothing to secure this protection or fair treatment. He knows no one here and no one knows him. A first term can do very little for his district. He only becomes valuable after he "learns the ropes." Not only in the matter of the tariff do I believe that I can be more valuable than any new man, but I know I can secure for the district and help to get for our state valuable things that a stranger here could not.

I think my attitude as a member of Congress is in some places misunderstood. Being a Republican and subscribing to the principles of the Republican platform I have always supported by my voice and vote Republican policies, but in all other things I insist upon being absolutely independent. Were it practical for me to learn the wishes of a majority of my constituents as to any measure or policy, I should, of course, feel bound as their representative to execute their mandate, but since in most cases this is impossible, I have insisted, and so long as I remain a member of Congress I shall continue to insist, upon following my own best judgment and convictions upon matters coming before the house. Because I took the lead in organizing the Insurgents of the house to overthrow the oligarchy there and modify the house rules in order to allow greater individual liberty of conduct I have not therefore felt bound to go with many of those with whom I co-operated in that contest in their fight against protection and other Republican principles. Because I have been and am a progressive Republican I have not felt under obligation to give my approval to every wild and unsound theory or proposal sought to be incorporated by some in the progressive programme. In all those matters I have reserved and will continue to reserve the right of exercising my individual judgment. I recognize no control in these matters except the wishes of a majority of the voters of my district. These wishes when known to me will always control my official conduct, but I have allowed no boss or political machine, either in the House or out of it, no speaker, no leader or leaders, no Insurgent body, no man or set of men to dictate to me how I should vote upon any measure nor what my official conduct should be in any matter. Occupying this position I have sometimes acted with one set of men in the House and sometimes with another. This course has sometimes brought upon me embarrassment and criticism, and it has often been hard and required courage to occupy this independent position; but when the time comes that I cannot occupy it, I do not care longer to remain a member of Congress.

With this short statement of my position, and asking all voters to examine my record as a member of congress for the past eight years, I respectfully solicit the support of your readers at the coming elections.

Very truly yours,
E. A. HAYES.

REPORT OF COUNTY ASSESSOR HAYWARD

The assessed valuation of San Mateo county for the fiscal year was submitted to the Board of Supervisors last Monday by County Assessor C. D. Hayward. The total assessed valuation of the county is $28,740,628, which is an increase of $434,400 over last year. Although having the smallest population of any city in the county, Hillsboro stands second in valuation, being assessed at $2,514,900.

The figures prepared by Assessor Hayward are: Assessed valuation of incorporated cities, city of San Mateo, $3,112,455; city of Hillsboro, $2,514,900; city of Burlingame, $1,794,185; Redwood City, $1,486,310; city of South San Francisco, $1,009,495; Daly City, $662,490.

Assessed valuations of townships outside of incorporated cities: First township, $6,047,330; second township, $2,821,260; third township, $6,473,675; fourth township, $1,869,885; fifth township, $948,840.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It's the easiest thing in the world for a woman to fool a man who tries to fool her.

Nobody has ever yet discovered just how much ice cream a young girl at a strawberry festival can eat.

If during courtship, a young man tells a girl that he's unworthy of her, she doesn't believe it any more than he means it.

LABOR DAY PICNIC.

Preparations have started for the big annual Labor Day picnic at Tanforan Park on Monday, September 2d, next. These picnics are very popular affairs each year and are always largely attended. There will be the usual amusements, consisting of dancing, games, races, etc. The picnic is given under the auspices of Father Cooper's parish, consisting of Ocean View, Daly City, Colma and South San Francisco. Father Cooper is very popular in San Francisco and this county and no doubt the attendance this year will largely outdo that of previous years. Don't forget the date—Monday, September 2, 1912. Attend and you will thoroughly enjoy a day's outing.

COUNTY NOTES

A posse under Sheriff J. H. Mansfield raided two unpretentious shacks in Visitacion Valley, on the bay shore last Sunday night, and captured one Chinese and fifty-nine white men, who are alleged to have been occupying the houses as a gambling den. When the posse first attempted to gain entrance the doors were blockaded from the inside and had to be battered down. Several men attempted to escape from the windows, but were frightened back by shots fired in the air. The posse headed by Sheriff Mansfield, consisted of Constable Ferguson Owen, James Coleman, Martin Walsh, Deputy Sheriff John Shields and ten under sheriffs.

A Free Book of Valuable

Political Information.

We take pleasure in announcing that any of our readers can secure the above vest pocket book free of charge by sending 2 cents for postage to D. SWIFT & CO., Patent Lawyers, Washington, D. C. This book contains tables showing which states each presidential candidate carried in 1908, the number of Democrats and Republicans elected by each state to Congress, in 1908 and 1910; the leading events in the life of each president, from Washington to Taft. It also gives the population of each state, according to census reports of 1890, 1900 and 1910, the population of about 20 of the largest cities in each state, a calendar for 1912 and 1913 and much other useful information.

A million-dollar suit against Charles W. Morse, the former "ice king," whom President Taft pardoned from serving out his term in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, was begun in New York by the New York Assets Realization Company, which alleges that Morse is a debtor to at least that amount.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed bids will be received by the Board of School Trustees of the San Bruno Park School District at 8 o'clock p. m., July 9, 1912, for the construction of a concrete floor of approximately 5200 square feet in the basement of the San Bruno Park Schoolhouse. Specifications for same now on file with the clerk of the board. All bids must be accompanied by a certified check of at least five per cent of the bid, made payable to said Board of School Trustees, same to be forfeited to the district if the successful bidder fails to complete the work within twelve working days after contract is let. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

STEAMER LIFE SAVING EQUIPMENT

In response to many requests for information regarding the life saving equipment on Southern Pacific liners plying between New Orleans and New York, which are often used by travelers from California over the Sunset Route, the passenger department has issued the following statement:

"The Southern Pacific steamships are now, and always have been, equipped with a sufficient number of the life-boats to carry every passenger and member of the crew to safety in case of accident which, by the way, is extremely unlikely, owing to the intimate knowledge of the route possessed by all officers employed. Each ship is equipped with wireless and is in touch with shore stations during the entire voyage.

"In addition, notices are posted in all state-rooms, public rooms and steerage, showing the assignments of occupants to specific boats, and the boats are all plainly and conspicuously numbered so that no mistake could be made. Fire and boat drills are held the first day out and at every port of call. The passengers are cordially invited to participate in these drills. Stewards always instruct passengers how to adjust the individual life-belts and how to move through the water if necessary."

"These rules are not new, but have been in operation on the Southern Pacific boats for several years."

Additional Attractions Secured for Water Pageant at Santa Cruz

It begins to look as though every lover of fun and recreation would be present at Santa Cruz, during the week of July 20th to 28th, when the greatest water pageant in the history of Western America will be promulgated under the direction of Fred Swanson and his associates. The ease with which residents in practically every section of the state can reach Santa Cruz; the attractive round-trip fares offered by the railroads; the moderate rates and splendid accommodations to be secured; and the variety of unique entertainment guaranteed by Manager Swanton, having proven irresistible magnets for hundreds of tired, over-worked Californians, who long for a breath of the sea and a jolly vacation with care-free companions.

The re-opening of the Cottage City, where clean, comfortable accommodations may be had at a minimum of expense, has gone far to offset the unfortunate destruction of the Sea Beach Hotel, which burned last week. In addition, the new Hotel St. George will aid the beautiful Casa Del Rey in taking care of those who wish more elaborate quarters. The Casa del Rey and Cottage City will, in themselves, accommodate 1000 guests, while the hotel dining room and that of the big Casino will accommodate 1300 persons at one. President John Martin, of the Santa Cruz Beach Company, has notified Manager Swanton that there must be no extra charges made during pageant week.

Several extra features have been added to the program during the past week. Aviators Bryant and Francis, famous throughout the west for their escapades in the air, will be on hand to lend a daily thrill to the festivities. Manager Swanton is now in communication with the navy department regarding the two submarines now in San Francisco bay with a view to having them at Santa Cruz for the pageant. It is understood that the department favors this exhibition of the latest "water bull-dog." Thus it will be possible for visitors to see practically all of the modern forms of navigation—on the water, over the water and under the water.

The Seafarer, America's entry in the Honolulu-to-San Francisco yacht race, has been invited to participate in the events of this "water week" and will probably be on hand with the winner's flag at her masthead. In addition, of course, will be the spectacular features arranged some days ago by Swanton—the yacht regattas; the motor-boat, shell, skiff, hydroplane and swimming races; the parade of decorated floats; the magnificent displays of fireworks; the bathing, golfing, dancing, driving, riding, fishing and kindred joys always associated with the Surf City.

Sidney Cavill, perhaps the most famous swimmer on the Pacific Coast and the first man who ever swam the Golden Gate, has been appointed as master of ceremonies for all aquatic sports, which mean that they will be of a high order. Cavill, who is present swimming instructor of the Olympia Club, is already in touch with some of the leading mermaids and mermen of the country, many of whom have already signified their intention of participating in the water contests.

Reservations at the Hotel Casa del Rey are now being made by the management and will be held until the evening of July 15th or later if assurances of attendance are received. *

WOODROW WILSON IS NOMINATED

Second Place on Democratic Ticket Goes to Marshall

Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey was nominated for President of the United States by the Democratic National Convention at its afternoon session July 2d when on the forty-sixth ballot he received 990 votes to eighty-four for Champ Clark. The Missouri delegation, which had remained faithful to Clark to the end, then moved that the nomination be made unanimous. There was a great chorus of approval and the long fight was over.

The nomination of Governor Marshall for Vice-President came as something of a surprise.

The forty-sixth and final roll call was begun at 2:53 p. m.

"Alabama 24 votes for Wilson," called out the chairman of that delegation.

"Arizona 6 for Woodrow Wilson."
"Arkansas 18 for Woodrow Wilson."
It was difficult for the clerk to proceed on account of the applause that greeted each response.

When California was reached, Theodore A. Bell, chairman of that delegation, which had been one of the Clark bulwarks, made his way to the stage.

A. Mitchell Palmer and several other any obligation to support Harmon. Ohio was passed. Oklahoma's delegation, so long divided, 10 and 10, cast its entire 20 for Wilson. Oregon's 10 and Pennsylvania's 76 remained in their accustomed places behind Wilson. Rhode Island's 10 came into line. South Carolina voted its 18 for Wilson. South Dakota gave Wilson 10.

The badly split Tennessee delegation for the first time in the convention was united, and gave its 24 votes to Wilson.

When Texas was reached, a little girl, Frances Ball, was lifted to the top of a chair to cast the State's vote. She was cheered as she chirped: "Texas votes 40 for Wilson." Utah, Vermont and Virginia went to Wilson. Then Washington, which had stood solidly for Clark, was reached. "We have stayed by Clark until he went down to defeat," announced the Washington chairman, "and we'll stay by Wilson to victory." West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico supported Wilson, but the 6 votes from the District of Columbia stayed with Clark to the end.

California, which had been passed, was called, and Theodore Bell asked unanimous consent to make a brief statement. Objection was made. Thereupon Bell rose to explain his vote, and finally secured quiet. He went to the platform. Bell said that he would support Wilson. He announced his intention of moving to make Wilson's nomination unanimous. He announced the vote of California as: Clark 24, Wilson 2.

Ohio was the last State to vote, and she gave Clark 1, Harmon 12, Wilson 33.

The total vote for Wilson was 990. Clark received 84 and Harmon 12. Two were absent.

Before the result of the forty-sixth ballot was announced, Senator Stone of Missouri moved to make the nomination of Wilson unanimous. As Chairman James put the motion, a chorus of "Ayes" broke all over the hall. "They have it," said James, "and I declare Woodrow Wilson the nominee of this convention." The demonstration began at once. Soon the aisles were choked with a struggling mass of delegates, shaking hands and greeting friends and enemies.

Woodrow Wilson was born in 1856 in Virginia.

As an emergency measure, there being no available funds in the hands of the State Board of Health for the work, the State Board of Control has adopted a resolution setting aside $10,000 from its emergency fund of $100,000 to be used in the work of exterminating ground squirrels in the coast counties in co-operation with the Federal Government in the fight against the bubonic plague. Reports have reached the State Board of Health of late that bubonic plague stricken squirrels are being found along the coast.

Attacked with a potato masher by a burglar whose operations she disturbed in her home in Oakland, Mrs. A. Mayer was beaten into insensibility and taken to the Emergency Hospital with a number of severe wounds about her head. The noise made by the thug aroused Mrs. Mayer's son, who got up and searched the rooms. He found his mother unconscious on the floor, bleeding from numerous wounds about the head. The only thing obtained from the house was a dog watch valued at $25.

ROGERS AND BURNS EXTREMELY POLITE

Clash in Darrow Trial Does Not Materialize

A mild and decorous cross-examination of William J. Burns, the detective, and an outbreak directed at Judge Hutton by Attorney H. H. Appel of the defense, which resulted in the imposition of a fine of $25 for contempt, were features of the bribery trial of Clarence S. Darrow at Los Angeles.

The expected clashes between Attorney Rogers and Burns because of a long standing feud between them, failed to materialize during the cross-examination of the detective. Rogers' questions were courteously put and Burns was as scrupulously polite in his responses as his inquisitor. Burns testified that he knew of but one man in his employ who was a spy in the camp of the McNamara defense and that he had no men in his employ who betrayed the secrets of labor leaders in Chicago or Indianapolis. He said that he was cognizant at all times of the trap laid for Darrow by Detective Guy Biddinger, who took Darrow's money while pretending to betray the secrets of the McNamara prosecution.

Asked concerning his claim to the rewards offered for the arrest and conviction of the dynamiters of the Los Angeles Times, Burns declared that he was entitled to all of them. He referred ironically to the manner in which some of the rewards had "melted like snow before a summer's sun" since the conviction of the McNamaras. The claim to the rewards made by Detective Samuel L. Browne of the District Attorney's office was characterized by Burns as "bunk" and "rot."

Burns denied that he had ever made the statement in public that he purposed to "get Gompers." He admitted that Detective Malcolm McLaren was on the pay roll of his agency while employed in the Darrow case by District Attorney Fredericks.

TERSE CALIFORNIA NEWS

King Alfonso of Spain, the Queen and suite will come to California next fall and pass the winter in this country and Mexico, according to a definite official announcement.

President Taft has signed the bill granting a right of way to the Panama-Pacific Exposition across the Fort Mason military reservation upon such location and under such regulations as shall be approved by the Secretary of War.

Nearly 700 delegates to the eleventh biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in session in San Francisco, were taken over the exposition site and had their first view of the coming 1915 world's fair grounds.

The exclusive society circles embracing this year's graduating class of the Westlake School for Girls at Los Angeles are excited over an expected sensational arrest of some one who stole $2910 worth of diamonds, watches, rings and other jewelry there just before the recent commencement.

Fruit-growers and shippers are daily expecting the arrival in Sacramento of the committee appointed at the State Fruit Growers' Convention in Santa Barbara recently to interview Governor Johnson and ask him to remove State Horticultural Commissioner A. J. Cook on the ground of incompetency. It is admitted that Cook is a scientist, but it is charged that he lacks executive ability and judgment.

Miniature fruit exhibits to catch the eye of the Eastern traveler are being installed at nearly all railway points in Tulare county by the County Board of Trade. Several of these are placed in or near the depots. The exhibits installed have attracted much attention. The main exhibit of the Trade Board will remain in Hyde Park, Visalia. Exhibits also are maintained in San Francisco, Los Angeles and other cities.

Suffering horribly, Manuel Flores, a dairyman of Tulare, lies at a sanatorium in a critical condition as the result of poisoning from the bite of a spider. Flores was working in an out-building and the spider dropped upon his hand from the rafters. He paid little attention to the bite at the time and it was several hours later before he was taken sick. Flores' case is the second reported from this district this year.

Charlotte Newman, the four-year-old daughter of Charles Newman, a rancher of Wild Goose Canyon, awoke after a nap on a haystack and found a large gopher snake coiled at her feet. The child, absolutely unconcerned of her danger, was attracted and watched it for some minutes before calling to a ranch hand to look at the reptile. The man killed it immediately with a pitch fork. The snake was exceedingly large and became vicious when attacked.

Edward Chapman, an Englishman claiming to be a scion of British nobility, fell from a high bluff in the Neptune Gardens property, Alameda, and sustained a fracture of the skull, which may end his life. Chapman has been familiarly known about the streets of Alameda for years as Chappie. He receives remittances from England, which are spent almost as soon as received. Chapman is brilliantly educated. He claims that his grandfather was a high and titled British official.

Smoking on the lower decks of the creek ferries of the Southern Pacific is now prohibited, under a new rule which went into effect recently. The augmenting of the creek ferry fleet to accommodate the greatly increased auto traffic has caused a rush of autos crossing the bay. So thickly are the cars packed on some trips that a chance spark might easily start an expensive and even fatal fire. To reduce the chances of fire to a minimum the no smoking on the lower deck order was issued.

Noah Fields Drake, associate professor of geology at Stanford University, has accepted the position of professor of geology in the University of Arkansas. In connection with this position he will serve as the State Geologist of Arkansas. Professor Drake graduated from Stanford in 1894 and acted in the capacity of consulting engineer for several large mining companies in China for some time. Previous to his becoming a member of the Stanford faculty in 1911 he was professor of geology and mining in the Imperial Pei Yang University.

Cattlemen of the hills this year must use care that they keep for the winter only as many head of stock as they can feed, otherwise they may face an unpleasant journey to the courts. This is the statement sent out by the officials of the Tulare County Humane Society, the headquarters of which are in Porterville. In the past the cattlemen have taken long chances, and if the stock died it went at that. If managed to get over the winter the profit was large. Hereafter the stockman must arrange to feed his animals, as turning them out to a bare pasture will subject them to vigorous prosecution.

Mrs. Ida Oliver has asked the San Francisco police to recover a small diamond ring, worth about $35, which she said had been stolen from her finger while she slept. Mrs. Oliver declared that she retired and had the ring. She said she woke up at about 4 o'clock in the morning and saw a tall and a short man in her room. Both walked out through the door. She returned to sleep and did not learn of her loss, she said, until several hours later.

The Stranger
Huntsman

His Appearance at and Retirement From a Banquet

By F. A. MITCHEL

At the base of the mountains lying northeast of Madrid, the capital of Spain, lived, a number of years ago, a wealthy gentleman named Miguel Herrera. The mountains of Spain were in those days infested with bands of robbers, though they were rather a part of than the enemies of the country people, their principal objects of attack being persons of the upper classes. Don Miguel was noted for his charities, and on one occasion had used his influence to procure a pardon for a bandit who was about to be executed. The kindness of his disposition and his sympathy for those beneath him were appreciated, and his home and his family were safe from any depredations on the part of the bandits.

Many other families of wealth occupied this same region, and it was not so far from Madrid as to deter residents of the capital from making visits there and to the entertainments given by the residents of this hospitable region. Indeed, it was a Spanish settlement of persons who were without occupation, but in the enjoyment of incomes from inherited estates.

The family of Don Miguel consisted of a son, Enrique, and a daughter, Pepita, aged respectively twenty-two and nineteen. Both were very popular with their companions, and Pepita was a beauty. She was fond of horseback riding and with her brother often made equestrian excursions either into the mountains or over the more level country at their base. They would not have dared to go about unprotected had they not known that they were immune from the bandits, and even had this not been so they would have received any needed warning from the peasants.

On one of these excursions into the mountains they lost their way. Evening was coming on, and they had a prospect before them either of sleeping in a hut or under the sky, when they came upon a man carrying a rifle in the hollow of his arm, whom they took for a huntsman. Enrique asked him to direct them, and he very politely consented to do so, walking along beside them and chatting with them familiarly. That he was a gentleman was apparent from his manner and the well bred modulation of his voice. He cast frequent side glances at Donna Pepita, with whose beauty he was evidently very much taken.

Enrique told him that they were the children of Don Miguel Herrera, and he said that he had heard of their father, although for himself he resided farther northward in Old Castle. He had come into the mountains, he said, to hunt, that being the game season. His remarks showed a high intelligence and refinement. After piloting them several miles, making himself very entertaining the while, he put them on a road with which they were familiar. At parting Don Enrique invited him, should he come near their home, to honor them with a call. But he said that his hunt was about ended, and he expected to return on the morrow to his own abode.

A year passed. Don Enrique had forgotten the stranger, but his sister had not. There was something about that lithe figure, that oval olive face with its dark, silky beard, those coal black, expressive eyes, that she could not forget. She wondered who he was and would have inquired about him of those she met residing in Old Castle, but he had not given his name. She wondered if she would ever meet him again. Indeed, having noticed his admiring glances while he had walked by her side, she was surprised that he had not availed himself of her brother's invitation.

The next autumn after Don Enrique and his sister had met the huntsman in the mountains Don Miguel and his family gave an entertainment to which all persons of their class residing round about were invited. Spain is a warm country, and although it was October, both the house and the grounds, lighted with paper lanterns, were open to the guests. The patio or court where tropical plants were kept in winter had received its verdant furnishing. A string band composed chiefly of guitars and lutes was stationed here, another in the house and another in the garden. The throngs of well dressed men and women attired in the peculiar Spanish mode, with their elaborate coiffures, gayly colored scarfs and decorated fans, rendered the scene intensely gay.

When the festivities were at their height a gentleman entered the main drawing room, where the hosts were receiving their guests, and made straight for Don Enrique, who recognized him for the huntsman who had piloted him and his sister in the mountains a year before. Don Enrique received the guest cordially, and Pepita, who was standing near, with a blush. Then he was introduced to their parent, but as he had given no name as "the gentleman who so kindly put us on the road in the mountains."

The stranger explained that he had come again for a hunt, and having heard that the Herreras were to give a fete had taken advantage of the fact to meet them again in accordance with their invitation. Naturally he attached himself to Donna Pepita, who, putting her hand through his arm, asked him if he would like to go the rounds and meet her friends.

"I would prefer, senorita," he said, "to walk with you in your garden. Your guests I shall not likely meet again since I do not live in your neighborhood, and the formality of an introduction would not interest me."

So Donna Pepita led him out into the garden, where, after walking about for awhile amid the plants, they seated themselves upon a rustic seat, where they remained conversing till the hour for supper arrived, when they went into the house.

Though there were many guests arrangements had been made to seat them all in the banquet hall. The stranger, who, on account of his fine figure, handsome face and a certain indescribable uniqueness there was about him, attracted marked attention, was taken by Donna Pepita to the main table where sat her father and mother, and seated her guest beside herself. The guest of honor, Judge Cardozo from Madrid, was seated on Senora Herrera's right, opposite the stranger and Donna Pepita. The judge's eye no sooner fell upon the guest before him than he regarded him with a curious and suppressed stare. The stranger apparently took no notice of the fact that he was so intently regarded, though his brows, to a close observer, would have been seen to slightly contract. One thing the judge noticed: His vis-a-vis placed his hand to his hip, where he seemed to be making some sort of an adjustment.

This act seemed to deter the judge from a remark he was about to make. At the same moment the host, who was sitting near, began to introduce Cardozo to several guests in close proximity to him. When Herrera came to introduce the stranger, not knowing his name, he hesitated. A quick glance passed between the stranger and the judge, the latter being about to move his lips as though to supply the name. But there was that in the former's expression which deterred him. Meanwhile Don Miguel passed on to the next introduction.

"Your face," said the judge to the stranger, "is familiar to me."

"I do not remember you, senor," replied the other, "and I trust you are mistaken."

"Why?"

"Because a gypsy once told me that just before my death I would meet a judge, and that the judge would die but a short while before me."

This singular remark attracted the attention of all within hearing. Donna Pepita looked up at her companion with an expression of startled terror.

"In that case," rejoined the judge, "I decline to remember you."

Little was said by those in the vicinity for some time. The stranger was watching every movement of the judge, who seemed to be casting about him for something—possibly an opportunity.

Presently the stranger, arising from his seat, said, addressing the judge:

"I did not come here to be an incubus on these festivities, especially since they are given by those I respect and admire. I remember you very well Judge Cardozo. The last time we met you kindly informed me just how long I had to live—or, rather the day on which I would die. But your walls were not thick enough for those who love me. I disappointed you.

"Yes, I am Leandro Sierra, by inheritance a grandee of Spain, who lost his fortune at the gaming table and took to the road like many a gentleman among our ancestors. Never till this moment have I regretted my act."

He paused and cast a glance down at Senorita Pepita, full of momentary anguish, then concluded:

"I will retire, and I trust no one will make a scene by attempting to stop me."

With a pistol in each hand he withdrew, walking out through the throng as though he did not care whether he were attacked or not. No one in the room was armed, and he was not interfered with. Besides, those who had been sitting near and had heard his words were engaged with Donna Pepita, who had fainted.

A few months later Leandro Sierra again stood before Judge Cardozo to receive a sentence of death. But he was much changed since the first time he had listened to his doom. His meeting with Donna Pepita Herrera had effected the change. He listened with bowed head, and when the sentence had been pronounced said:

"This time, Senor Judge, there will be no escape. I do not care to live."

Not long after the bandit's execution Donna Pepita entered a convent.

For Sale—$3000; 8-room house, with two lots; in Belle Air; brand new; toilet, bath, gas, electricity, and water plant. Will trade for ranch or Peninsula lots. J. M. Custer, San Bruno. *

On Thursday Bert Mackey set fire to a sack of shavings in a lot in Belle Air. The dry grass also caught fire and spread across First avenue and came very near setting fire to Cook's furniture store, which was saved by quick work of some citizens.

After making preparation to have a beautiful float in the Fourth of July parade at South San Francisco the local order of Woodmen of the World was disappointed on account of the man who had been employed to drive did not put in an appearance with his horses.

JARRED THE EXPERT.

The Doctor's Fame Was Great, but His Record Was Deadly.

A certain great Chicago physician and A. S. Trude, a lawyer of that city, are close friends, but one time when the famous physician was called as an expert witness in a case Trude was on the opposite side and had to cross examine the physician.

The physician had given his expert testimony. It upheld the contention of his side perfectly.

When it came Trude's turn he squared away, glared at his friend and, after the usual preliminary questions, began the examination:

"Dr. —, you are frequently called into consultation when prominent men are ill in this community, are you not?"

"I am."

"Were you in attendance on George M. Pullman?"

"I was."

"Where is Mr. Pullman now?"

"He is dead."

"Ah, yes! And were you called in by Mr. Marshall Field?"

"I was."

"Where is Mr. Field now, may I ask?"

"He is dead."

"Indeed! And were you in attendance on Philip D. Armour?"

"I was."

"And where is Mr. Armour now?"

"He is dead."

Trude knew that his friend was called in consultation in almost every big case in Chicago, and there was a malicious gleam in his eye as he named dead men after dead men and asked if the expert had attended them. After he had named about a dozen prominent citizens who had passed away he turned to the jury with a wave of his hand, as if to say, "There's your expert!" and sat down.—Saturday Evening Post.

Washing Woolen Scarfs.

It is an easy matter to cleanse at home white woolen scarfs and shawls. Prepare soapsuds by boiling pure white soap in rainwater. Soak the article first in warm, clear water. Dip it in the soapsuds and gently knead with the hands until it appears clean. Press between the hands without wringing. Wash through fresh soap suds and place in cold water. Rinse through several waters and dry it between cloths.

Never hang woolen articles upon the line. To stretch the full length upon a towel and cover with another absorbs the water without stretching the article out of shape.

The Busy Begum.

The begum of Bhopal, India's famous woman ruler, has just donated $35,000 toward the establishing of a girls' school at Delhi. In a public address not long ago she urged the women of India to make the education and liberation of their sex the chief objects of their lives, declaring that female education is the foundation of all national success and progress.

SHOPMEN READY TO TIE UP RAILROADS

Hundred Thousand Men May Strike on Western Roads

Representatives of the International Union of Shop Employees on all the railroads running west of Chicago have addressed a joint letter to W. A. Garrett, chairman of the General Managers' Association, asking for a conference to present certain demands. In the event that the conference is denied the officers have been authorized to order a general strike.

At the conference held in St. Louis on June 24-25 a recent vote taken among the shopmen on the Western railroads was canvassed by the international officers and showed an overwhelming majority in favor of a strike unless an immediate settlement is reached on the Illinois Central and Harriman lines, where the shopmen have been on a strike for nine months.

While the vote of the men is for a strike, the matter has been left in the hands of the executive council of the Federation of Federations, which is composed of the international presidents of the nine crafts involved.

Some of the general managers are taking the situation seriously, while other profess to believe that there will be no trouble. Should a strike be called it would involve about 100,000 men on the different railroads, but the managers believe that many will refuse to obey the order.

NELSON NOW FACES BURGLARY CHARGE

Out on Bonds in Arson Case Is Arrested for Robbery

John Nelson, a 17-year-old boy whose home is in Eureka, was released from jail at Weaverville on $20,000 bail being furnished by his friends in Eureka. As soon as he stepped from the jail he was arrested on another charge, that of burglary, and was again locked up. The $20,000 was to insure his appearance in court on September 10th, when he was to be tried for setting fire to Peter Roberts' house in the Mad River country, last December. Roberts was murdered and his house burned. Peter Hewitt, Tom Duncan, Steve Duncan and John Nelson were arrested for the killing. Hewitt and the Duncans pleaded guilty and are now in prison serving life sentences. Nelson stood trial and was acquitted. Then he was arrested on a charge of arson, and now, after he had obtained temporary liberty by giving the biggest bond ever required in Trinity county, he is arrested on a third charge, all the outgrowth of the murder of Peter Roberts and the burning of his roadside station home.

CRIMES AND CASUALTIES

While fishing for crabs from a boat off South Sausalito, Thomas J. Moore lost his balance and tumbled overboard. His body was found an hour later, entangled in his crab net. Moore was 37 years old, and lived in Sausalito. He is survived by a widow.

Ernest Laurent was thrown against a barbed-wire fence near Santa Rosa when he guided his auto off a grade to avoid a collision. He sustained internal injuries and his throat was cut by the barbed fence until it is believed he cannot survive his injuries. Laurent and his family were going to town when the accident occurred, and his machine went over a fifty-foot grade.

Cocoanut and Raisin Cake.

Take a scant cupful of butter, one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, three eggs, a teaspoonful of vanilla, a salt-spoonful of mace, half a cupful of milk, three cupfuls of pastry flour, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar and half a teaspoonful of soda. Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually, also the yolks of the three eggs, beaten separately, and then the vanilla and mace. Sift the flour and mix the soda and cream of tartar with it. Add the milk and flour alternately, a little at a time, and lastly the whites of three eggs, beaten up to a stiff dry white foam. Bake in shallow round pans. As soon as baked split and spread with a thin layer of currant jelly.

Vandals, taking advantage of the absence from their Fairview (Neb.) home of William J. Bryan and members of his family at Baltimore, tore up and hauled away fifty-six two-foot squares of cement sidewalk leading from what is known as the "newspaper correspondents' wigwag" to the home. The suggestion is facetiously made by Bryan's friends that the blocks were appropriated as souvenirs. The police have no clew.

Another severe battle at Tripoli on June 28th is described in an official dispatch received at Rome. According to the message a whole division attacked the heights of Sidi Said and neighboring positions where masses of Arabs and Turks who had escaped defeat the previous day were lying in deep intrenchments re-enforced by a heavy native contingent. All the Italian guns aided the attacking party from shore and three warships bombarded the positions. The Turks left 200 dead and a large number of wounded on the field. The Italian losses total ten dead and seventy-eight wounded.

While search for him was being conducted all over Chicago, Louis Haver, aged 34, a painter, lay sick and helpless, walled in an attic of his own home, unable to summon assistance and facing starvation. He was rescued, almost dead from hunger and thirst and raving in delirium. Physicians are doubtful of his recovery. Haver had just arisen from long illness on the day he disappeared. Roofers were mending a hole in the roof and Haver climbed to the attic to watch them. He was exhausted by the effort and sank into sleep on a bundle of carpet in a dark corner. The roofers completed their work and descended through the attic trap door, fastening it from below. Then they closed the stairway door leading to the attic from the upper story and departed.

MODERN PLUNGE FOR CONVICTS AT FOLSOM

The construction of a modern concrete bathhouse, equipped with stationary tubs, showers and a large plunge tank, and the installation of a ventilating system to remove the hot, fetid air from the cells, has been decided upon by Warden James A. Johnston of Folsom prison as a part of his plan to effect numerous improvements in the conduct and management of the penitentiary.

The present bathing arrangements at the prison consist of two bathtubs and half a dozen showers, which are used by approximately 1200 convicts. The plans for the new bathhouse provide for a tank 20 by 40 feet in size and 8 feet in depth, with seven tubs and twenty-eight showers. Two large clothing rooms will also be included in the building. The structure will be 76 feet long and 38 feet wide. Work on the building will be started as soon as the steel arrives. Completion is expected within four months.
